

Traffic stopped at train crossing

Lights flashed, a bell rang, barriers came down

The train tracks crossed Redwood Avenue at Railroad Avenue (now known as Montecito Drive), stopping traffic in both directions when a train was approaching. Wooden arms that dropped were later added to this scene.

